Municipal Portfolio Investment Objective

The investment objective is to generate positive total return through the compounding of tax-exempt principal and interest income at high rates to preserve invested capital and create new wealth. This is a high yield, long investment strategy designed to provide continuous, consistent cash flow to the client. No leverage is employed. Bonds are secured in nearly every instance with first position collateral. Clients are invested in high yield, not rated, tax-exempt and taxable municipal revenue bonds with yields targeted in the 6-8% range.

The Case for RPM Selected High Yield Bonds

- ◆ RPM selected not rated, high yield, tax-exempt bonds are attractive, offering significantly enhanced yield (6-8%), transparency, control, and recourse to assets not offered through the G.O. market.
- ◆ The massive stimulus increase in public borrowing and expansion of the Federal Reserve's balance sheet employed during the Great Recession will begin to reverse, and we believe RPM's income orientated strategy can shield investors from potential market volatility.
- ◆ The traditional municipal market continues to be steeped with embedded risks that may not be readily visible or controlled by investors.
- ◆ With an ever increasing aging population, income needs may not be easily satisfied in the current low yield environment from traditional means, i.e. U.S. Treasury bonds or General Obligation municipal securities.

The RPM Investment Process

- ◆ RPM engages in an extensive, comprehensive fundamental credit analysis prior to the purchase of any security. Such process continues on an ongoing basis for as long as the security is held.
- ◆ Our rigorous due diligence drives the transaction structure and the creation of security interests. The negotiated bonds are collateralized by a first position mortgage lien on all plant, property and equipment and a gross revenue pledge.
- ◆ Principal is amortized throughout the life of the bond. Sector concentration is utilized. Purchase of an entire bond issue or a supermajority position occurs, whenever possible.
- ◆ We do not employ leverage and do not engage in derivative transactions.
